

Alpen & Glühen

Thomas Gansch – trumpet, flugelhorn

Christian Bakanic – accordion, harmonica

radio.string.quartet

    Bernie Mallinger – violin

    Igmar Jenner – violin

    Cynthia Lao – viola

    Sophie Abraham – cello

Manu Delago – percussion

Lukas Kranzelbinder – double bass

The band project Alpen & Glühen, initiated by the internationally renowned trumpet virtuoso and stylistic jack-of-all-trades Thomas Gansch, sees itself as a supergroup of outstanding musicians who have come together in this project to combine their different musical socialisations into an aesthetically diverse body of sound. Folk music traditions meet jazz, filigree music-making meets rousing improvisation, a Boarischer with a humorous groove meets an Indian raga translated into Austrian. What may initially sound like wild stylistic pluralism is woven into special worlds of sound on stage that are melancholic, ecstatic and humorous all in one.

With the Grammy-nominated musician Manu Delago, the frontman of jazz high-flyers Shake Stew Lukas Kranzelbinder and the creative ingenuity of the radio.string.quartet, the project has played completely sold-out and frenetically acclaimed tours through Austria, Germany, Italy and Switzerland, performed its debut concert in the Great Hall of the venerable Elbphilharmonie in Hamburg and achieved a top position in the Austrian album charts for its debut album. Now the accordion virtuoso Christian Bakanic has joined the band, adding new and powerful facets to the project's soundscapes.

Teaser Video